ANNOUNCEMENT BY ELIHU ROOT

PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERNATIONAL LAW, AT ITS ANNUAL MEETING, WASHINGTON, D. C., APRIL 30, 1921.

The Chair wishes to say one thing which probably comes under the head of miscellaneous business. It is that an index of the first fourteen years of the JOURNAL, SUPPLEMENT and PROCEEDINGS, has been in course of preparation for a considerable period, following the action, I think, of the Executive Council at its meeting two years ago.

Mr. Finch has been devoting great and discriminating labor to the preparation of that index, which will in various forms be adapted to enable anyone to find there any article or any particular document or the treatment of any topic. In my humble judgment that index will multiply the value of the JOURNAL about ten times.

You will recall that the JOURNAL happened, without anybody's thinking about it, to begin just as Moore's Digest of International Law was completed. I did not think of it at that time, as I was busy with the arrangements for completing the printing and publication of Moore's Digest in the State Department when we were starting this Society, so that the fourteen years of the AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW which, as I have already told you on previous occasions, is declared to be the best journal of international law in any language, continues the history of diplomacy at the point where Moore's Digest of International Law ends, and the two cover the entire record.

With this index, which itself will be a work of the greatest value to anyone who has any interest in or curiosity about any question of international law, we will have a complete conspectus of the progress and events of international law from the earliest beginnings of our Government.

I hope that the members of the Society will not fail to acquaint all persons who are interested in the subject, and who are qualified to be leaders of opinion on the subject, with the fact of this immense increase in the value of the means afforded by the Society for correct information upon all topics relating to the rights and duties of nations.

HOW TO USE THE INDEX

This index covers in a single alphabet the complete publications of the American Society of International Law from its organization in 1906 up to the end of the year 1920. These publications are:

The American Journal of International Law, Volumes 1 to 14, corresponding to the years 1907 to 1920.

Supplements to the American Journal of International Law issued regularly with each number of the Journal and separately paged and bound.

Special Supplements issued in the years 1915, 1916, and 1917, and given volume numbers to correspond with the regular Supplements of those years, namely, Vols. 9, 10, and 11.

Proceedings of the American Society of International Law, issued annually for the years 1907 to 1917, inclusive, with one volume covering the years 1918–1919, and appearing in one volume again in 1920.

The following abbreviations are used to indicate these series of publications:

J—American Journal of International Law.
S—Supplement to the American Journal of International Law.
SS—Special Supplement to the American Journal of International Law.
P—Proceedings of the American Society of International Law.

The Journals, Supplements, and Special Supplements are referred to by volume numbers, a roman numeral being used immediately after the letter indicating the series. The page numbers are given in arabic immediately following the volume number. (Example: J, IV, 410.)

The Proceedings, not having been given volume numbers, are referred to by the year. In references to the Proceedings, the year, therefore, takes the place of the volume number. (Example: P, 1914, 137.)

Wherever it is necessary for clearness that the reader should know the character of the reference, another series of abbreviations, printed in italic, has been adopted as follows:

LA—Leading Article; Ed—Editorial Comment; JD—Judicial Decision; BR—Book Review; Ad—Address; Rem—Remarks.

For convenience of reference, the abbreviations have been reprinted at the bottom of each page of the index.
